

TROUBLESOME UTES.

FRONTIERSMEN AND TROOPS AFTER THE SAVAGES.

A War Considered Inevitable—The Hunt for Colonel—Chief Gray's Widow Made Away With.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)
CHICAGO, August 23.—A Denver special to the Times says: A courier who arrived at Glenwood Springs yesterday brings the latest news from Meeker, in which it is stated that Sheriff Kendall had gone out, accompanied by seventy-five well-armed and equipped frontiersmen, for the purpose of meeting and engaging the Indians who are supposed to be camped about twenty-five miles from Meeker. The number of Indians is estimated from 125 to 200. They are said to be in high timber-land in an almost impenetrable position, where they will be able to stand off quite an army.

A courier just arrived at Glenwood Springs brings a message from General Reardon, who is in command of the troops on route to Meeker. Reardon, on the divide, about thirty miles from Meeker, and shows that he has made half of the journey in safety. His reports report that about nine miles distant from Meeker, the Indians were in the trail, which showed that these Indians had crossed ahead of them on the road. General Reardon will hold his command at this route until he hears from Kendall, as he thinks if he has had an engagement with the Indians, he will drive them toward Meeker's camp. Adjutant-General West has left Glenwood Springs for Meeker, and Colonel F. R. Brooks is now commanding at that place. The people of Meeker feel confident that a Ute war will soon be taken.

CHICAGO, August 23.—A special from Omaha, Neb., says: General Crook received a dispatch yesterday from Major Randall, in command of Fort Buchanan, Utah, in which he gives an account of a successful attempt to find Colorado and negotiate with the Indians. He stated that Indian Agent Tynes, in charge of the White-River Agency, had sent out a white man in company with Elmer, Colorado's son, to a point near Meeker, where Colorado was supposed to be camped. On arriving there they found the camp had been burned and the domestic animals were scattered about as if the place had been evacuated in great haste. Young Colorado said he was confident the camp had been attacked and burned by the Indians. It was reported that Chaplain, the widow of Chief Gray, had been made away with, as she was among the missing squaws. The Utes at this agency, the dispatch says, have no knowledge of any outbreak, and understand that the Colorado authorities are after the Indians.

General Crook said he had received direct information that there had been an outbreak and that there is nothing in it.

A TELEGRAM FROM MAJOR RANDALL.
WASHINGTON, August 23.—The following telegram has been received at the War Department from Major Randall, commanding the troops at Fort Buchanan, Utah, through General Terry: "Colorado has his followers with him, about 150 in all, including men, women, and children. There are no indications of his being reinforced. All the Indians at Vint's and Gray's want peace. I believe if he could get there without being attacked, most of the party who went out with MacAndrews have returned to the agency, frightened back. They claim that Colorado's camp could not be found. MacAndrews' citizens kept their hands off the squaws, and no manifestation concerning Chaplain. If the cowboys have harmed her I anticipate it will end in serious trouble. I say to the Indians that I hope she is with Colorado, or may be a prisoner at Glenwood Springs. With the latter could be recovered. A telegram has been received at the Interior Department from Senator Tiller, at Denver, to the effect that if the Ute Indians in Colorado are not returned to the reservation there will be trouble. From the character of the information received, the belief that the State authorities do not exercise the best judgment and were too precipitate in their attempts to serve the civil process on the indicted Indians. It is hoped, however, that all trouble may be suppressed without bloodshed."

REPORTS FROM FRONTIERSMEN.
GLENWOOD SPRINGS, COLO., August 23.—No news has been received from Sheriff Kendall and the posse of fifteen men who left here Sunday morning to arrest two Indians indicted for horse-stealing, and fears are entertained for their safety. A courier arrived to-day and reported that a band of 100 bucks from the Vint's agency had been seen camping their way towards Colorado, on Milk river. This news was of such serious character that General Reardon, who is camped about twenty-five miles from here with a company of militia, will immediately move to Meeker for the better protection of the town.

The widow of Gray, the most powerful chief that ever lived on the Utes, was killed by the sheriff's party at one of the first encounters.

MR. DODGE EXPLAINS.
How He Was Mistaken in Making Report of the Tobacco Acreage.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)
WASHINGTON, August 23.—The following letter from the statistical department of the Agricultural Department was prepared in compliance with the request of the committee of tobacco-men who have been in consultation with the Commissioner of Agriculture and the Statistical section yesterday morning:

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 23, 1887.
Hon. Norman J. Colman, Commissioner of Agriculture.

In accordance with your direction I have consolidated and reviewed all returns already received, and reviewed all returns under other sources up to date, together with that upon which the July tobacco report was based, especially for Kentucky, relative to which great difference of opinion has existed and much interest excited, as that State is the most prominent tobacco-growing and producing about four tenths of the product of the United States. I find that the late returns so far as received make an average of only 11.5 per cent. of last year's acreage, while previous returns from over 15,000 growers of western tobacco this year in comparison with their acreage last year make an average of even less than 40 per cent. The July report for Kentucky, which was based upon the returns of sixty-six correspondents, each representing a county, made an average of 53 per cent. of the returns of 1886. In the examination of the results of long experience of a tendency to underestimate the acreage, led me to place the Kentucky acreage at 78 per cent. Recent returns have very clearly shown that a cherry city was standing in front of his store this morning, when a large iron letter fell from the sign above the door and struck him on the head, crushing in his skull. He died in an hour.

Gold Importation.
(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)
NEW YORK, August 23.—The steamer Fulda, which arrived yesterday, brought $200,000 in gold from England. The gold imports this week so far amount to $250,000.

VOORHES OF ROOMS.

Sherman's and the Other Little Ones—A Story Applicable to Tuttle.

A Kansas City special to the World says: Senator D. W. Voorhes, of Indiana, passed through here Friday. Being asked as to politics he replied that he was in politics to Blaine and Tuttle as follows:

"It is difficult to forecast the political situation with any degree of accuracy. To my mind it is pretty plain that Blaine, if he wants it, can have the nomination of the next Republican convention. The little boys for Sherman and other aspirants always loom up just before the convention meets only to demonstrate how weak and shallow their claims are. The action of the Pennsylvania State Convention has undoubtedly struck the keynote of the Republican shibboleth for the next campaign. The rebel-flag incident and the infant industry arguments will be the stock-in-trade of the campaign orators."

By the way, speaking of the flag incident reminds me of the man who had a neighbor who used to enter his barn at all times and borrow his horse. He used the horse so much that he thought he had a right to it superior to that of the owner. The accommodating owner gave the horse to him, and the neighbor, who was a neighbor, and one night went over to that gentleman's house to get the animal. He was met by the neighbor, shotgun in hand, who refused to give up the animal, saying: "I know the horse is yours, but I have been riding on your neighbor's horse in the night. Come in the daytime and ask for the horse, and perhaps I will let you have it."

General Tuttle thinks it's very impolitic of the President to ignore the return of the flag, and he would like to see the President do it. He perfectly proper if Congress should grant it on the plaintive requests of the various southern States. These men, like Tuttle, are not abreast of the times, and their utterances are of no significance. The Administration is doing well. It has been a pronounced success. With Cleveland at the head of the Democratic ticket—he will in all probability be put there—success is assured.

A Young Man Unknowningly Attends the Funeral of His Admired.

A Jeffersonville (Ga.) special to the World says: Jasper Porter, who lives five miles from this city, had an engagement to spend last night at the residence of a friend in this city. He was living near Walnut church in Jackson county, and to escort her to church to-day. He left home yesterday afternoon to keep his appointment. On reaching Walnut church he found a large assembly of people in progress, and entered the church to find that the funeral of a friend was being held. He was not known to the family, and he was not known to the family.
